It Didn’t Stay The Same For You

You saw it
one way
at first.

Clear enough
to notice.

Not clear enough
to hold.

Then something shifted—

not in the sky,
but in you.

What you saw
was already different.

It didn’t stay
the same
for you.